Most Contracts Already Have an Owner

~80%

of federal opportunities are recompetes

You're not winning new work — you're taking it from someone.

You're Bidding Blind

Most tools show an expiring contract as a one-line payment record.

No incumbent. No size. No vehicle. No idea if it's worth it.

"Who Holds This Now?" — One Click

The Incumbent

The company performing the work right now

The Ceiling

The real prize size — what the contract is worth

The Expiry

When it ends — and the recompetes reopens

The Vehicle

What you'd need to hold to compete at all

Mindy Flags the Clock for You

The Recompetes panel reads daysUntilExpiration on every row and badges the urgency.

3 DAYS LEFT

Red — act now or miss it

X days

Orange — closing soon

2 weeks

Yellow — start positioning

Filter the panel by NAICS, Agency, State, or Set-Aside — then work the soonest first.

Recompetes "In Your Area"

Mindy's classifyLocation() tags each contract against where YOU work.

Your HQ

Right where you're based

Your Service Area

The territory you already cover

Neighboring States

Reachable expansion next door

Local Advantage

Past performance near the work wins

Who Holds This Now?

- ✓ Open the Recompetes panel at getmindy.ai
- ✓ See expiring contracts for your NAICS + agency
- ✓ Click a row → "► Who holds this now?"
- ✓ Read the incumbent, ceiling, expiry, bid count
- ✓ Check the competition badge — high or low

Is It a $200K Job — or a $63M Job?

Award Drill-Down

Mindy puts USASpending's deep detail inline.

- ✓ Obligated vs. ceiling
- ✓ Parent contract vehicle
- ✓ Period of performance
- ✓ Incumbent location

$200K

vs $63M

obligated tells you the real prize

Obligated vs. Ceiling — The Real Prize

Obligated

What's been spent so far — often just one task order on a much bigger vehicle. The small number.

Ceiling

The maximum the IDIQ can be worth across its life. This is the prize you're really fighting for.

A task order lives under a parent IDIQ vehicle. Judge the opportunity by the ceiling, not the one order you can see today.

Award Drill-Down

- ✓ Click View Award Details on the contract
- ✓ See obligated → ceiling, and the parent IDV / vehicle
- ✓ Read the period-of-performance dates
- ✓ Check recipient location + funding account
- ✓ Hit the USASpending link to verify it yourself

Are You Even Eligible to Bid?

Likely Incumbent Readout

Jones Lang LaSalle · ceiling $55.9M

expires 2033 · vehicle 47PF0022A0012

You must hold that vehicle to compete — find out before you spend a week on it.

Before You Pursue: Check 4 Things

Who holds it?

The incumbent you'd unseat

How big?

The ceiling — is the prize worth it

When does it end?

Enough runway to position

What vehicle?

Can you even bid — or must you team

Bid / No-Bid — Grounded in the Real Incumbent

Bidding Blind

- ✓ Guess the prize size
- ✓ Don't know who you're fighting
- ✓ Miss the vehicle requirement
- ✓ Waste weeks on dead ends

Bidding to Win

- ✓ Incumbent's real contract
- ✓ Size, timing, and vehicle
- ✓ Decide go / no-go fast
- ✓ Right in Proposal Assist

The Incumbent's Actual Scope (coming)

Recover the original Statement of Work from SAM's archive —
6 to 18 months early, before the re-compete re-posts.

Build your solution while competitors are still blind.

The Buys NAICS Can't See

In-Cache Vehicle Counts

- ✓ IDIQ — 195
- ✓ CSO — 40
- ✓ BPA — 29
- ✓ BAA — 19 · Other Transaction — 11

40%

have no NAICS at all — filed as Special Notices

Grounded, Not Guessed

Incumbent inferred from USASpending — best match by NAICS, agency, and title — and confidence-labeled.

Every readout carries a verify-on-USASpending link. And when there's no clear incumbent, Mindy says so — never a fabrication.
